Chinese Factions Preparing For War

YANKEE AIRMEN HIRED

Rival War Lords Gather Forces near Shanghai for First Clash

U. S. WARSHIPS ARRIVE TO PROTECT CITIZENS

Big Naval Engagement is Expected Momentarily; Enlist Russians

S (HANGHAI, Aug. 29.—Threats of civil war between rival Chinese leaders grew to severe proportions today.

General Wu Pei Fu, leading one of the factions, announced that he has employed a squadron of airplanes piloted by American and British aviators and that the machines will leave Shanghai for the front during the day.

Meantime General Lu, rival war lord, was doing his utmost to recruit other British and American pilots and it was generally believed airplanes may prove a decisive factor in the fighting believed to be imminent.

A fourth American warship arrived in the harbor today to protect American interests.

Hostilities Expected

There had been no actual fighting between the rival armies up to this morning but travelers arriving from Quinsin, where the troops are separated only by a narrow line along the railway, said that hostilities could not long be postponed.

The actual battle line, it was indicated, will be within thirty miles of Shanghai and both leaders will make every effort to gain control of the city.

It is not believed the foreign colony is in danger, however, as a number of British, American and Japanese warships are in the harbor.

One thousand Russians, most of them World War veterans, have been enlisted in the Shanghai-Ching-kiang army.

As Leaders to Seek Peace

The foreign and Chinese chambers of commerce both have brought all pressure to bear to restore peace and today sent envoys to the rival war lords urging them again to attempt to reach an agreement.

American steamers have been warned by Chinese forts that the outbreak of hostilities is imminent.

Martial law was proclaimed yesterday and a censorship established. Additional American and British warships have been summoned from Chefoo as it is considered almost certain there will be fighting in the city. There are more than sixty thousand troops in the Quinsin district, thirty miles out of Shanghai.

The foreign and Chinese chambers of commerce met together for the first time in history yesterday to plan protection of the city and devise a scheme for creation of a neutral zone.

Thousands of Chinese already are fleeing into the country.

Fleets of the rival leaders both are steaming toward Shanghai, one from Fie Chow and one from Nanking. It is believed there may be a naval engagement during the day.

Congressman to Conduct Affairs Of Disabled Vets

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Administration of the affairs of disabled veterans of the World War in California will be under the eye of Congressman Royal R. Johnson of South Dakota, himself a veteran who suffered wounds for the next few days.

Johnson is chairman of the new committee of veterans' legislation and has appointed sub-committees to investigate hospital conditions in all parts of the country.

From their investigation, data will be compiled, conclusions drawn and a bill offered to the next congress embodying recommendations for such improvements as are found necessary.

Little Boy Dies As Brother For Him Arrives

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—Jimmy Arena's mother was "away from home" yesterday afternoon, so the 7-year old went out to play with the kids. They were climbing over a rock crusher when Jimmy lost his balance and tumbled off. His skull was crushed.

They rushed the lad to the receiving hospital, where he died some hours later.

No one could find Mrs. Arena, for she was in another hospital. At about the same hour Jimmy died, his mother gave birth to another child, a brother for Jimmy. They haven't told her yet of the fate of her first born, and they won't for some days, the nurses mercifully agreed.

FILM STAR'S BROTHER HELD TO BE CRAZY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—Gripped by religious delusions and fancies about buried treasures, Solon Henkel, brother of Agnes Ayres, well known screen actress, has been turned over by police to the psychopathic ward of the general hospital for observation, physicians admitted today.

Henkel was picked up on a downtown street when his peculiar actions attracted attention. It was discovered that the young man has been considered a mental case for the past two years and has been in a government hospital at Palo Alto. He left there last Saturday.

Henkel was married in France at the close of the war and returned to this country with his bride. She is living in Hollywood with their four-year-old daughter, Agnes Ayres Henkel.

Henkel, besides other asserted hallucinations, holds that there are treasures buried on Catalina Island which he can locate. He claims that he was responsible for the exception of those who catch a glimpse of him standing at Oyster Bay late this afternoon, it will be the people of Washington who first will get a good look at this winning young man.

Troops Form Escort

From Oyster Bay the Prince will be whirled to the magnificent estate of James Burden at Syosset, where he is to live during his stay in this country. A handful of state troopers will form the escort. The Prince has asked to be allowed to come and have a good time and those arranging for his visit are determined that American hospitality shall exceed a natural desire to do him much honor.

Referring to statements made in a brief address by W. D. Pottinger, secretary of the Long Beach Boulevard association, that the city of Los Angeles, the city of Long Beach and private owners and municipalities between Long Beach and Los Angeles were co-operating in the widening to seventy feet of the pavement on the highway connecting Long Beach and Vernon, by way of Lynnwood, Armitage said that "if the interest involved deems it wise to spend an estimated amount of $7,500,000 to provide additional highway facilities, we should vision here the future of Orange county and at once start to prepare for that time when our population will be larger and our roads more congested even than today."

Go After Industry

Discussing the possible saturation point of industries by individual communities of Orange county, V. D. Johnson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Orange, urged co-operation by all organizations in the location of industries in the county. The saturation point, he said, would be in the ability of an individual community to finance manufacturing enterprises, and suggested that when a community has reached that position, it turns to another community in the county with ability to finance the project, all legitimate manufacturing propositions offered.

"We should keep in the county all good enterprises offered, and if one city cannot handle a factory offered it should pass it on to a neighboring community competent from a financial standpoint to handle the proposition," the secretary said. Coburn announced the appointment of W. B. Williams, T. B. Talbert and Thomas McFadden as a part of the committee authorized at the last meeting of the body to present to the regents of the state university the advantages of Orange county as a location for the Southern California Branch, if decision is made to move the branch from Los Angeles. The president said that he wanted two men who are members of the university alumni to complete the committee and that he would make appointments later.

Metzgar Honored

Presented by Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, resolutions were adopted expressing appreciation by the association of services rendered the organization and the county by J. C. Metzgar, who recently resigned his position as secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce. The resolutions were drawn by Welch, T. B. Talbert and A. M. Stanley.

Coburn, who is president of the county harbor committee of fifty, announced that within the next two weeks he probably would call a meeting of the executive committee of the larger committee, at which time each subcommittee would be asked to prepare and submit an early date its final report.

Oddfellows Will Hold Encampment

FRESNO, Aug. 29.—Tentative plans for the grand encampment of the Odd Fellows of California, to be held in Fresno four days, beginning October 14, have been outlined by the grand encampment under the chairmanship of Cole L. De Chant. An informal reception will be held Monday evening, October 13, after the registration of delegates and visitors. A dance will follow the reception.

Raising the colors at Camp Kornbeck, to be established at the county fair grounds, will be the feature of Tuesday's program. The camp is to be named in honor of Major-General E. H. Kornbeck of San Francisco.

The first session of the encampment will be called to order Tuesday morning in Odd Fellows' hall and in the afternoon the cantons will compete in prize drill at the fair grounds. The military contingent will be in session Wednesday.

The official ball will be held in Fresno Auditorium Wednesday night and encampment sessions held Thursday.

Boy Scouts Join Search for Girls Missing in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—Boy Scouts from a troop organized in the South Mansfield street district were searching a nearby slough today, seeking trace of Mary and Nella Martin, 12 and 8 years of age, who have been missing from their home since Saturday.

SAY STATE HIGHWAY IS DEATH TRAP

Associated Chambers Appoints Committee to Confer with Commission

FOLLOWING declarations at the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting at La Habra last night, by J. A. Armitage, of Huntington Beach, that because of its narrow width the state highway through Orange county is a "death trap," the county body today has inaugurated a movement to induce the state highway commission to widen the paved portion of the thoroughfare to thirty or forty feet.

The goods roads committee, consisting of H. A. Lake, chairman; C. L. Crumrine, Joe Skidmore; C. C. Bonnebrake and W. H. Spurgeon, was directed to at once communicate with the commission and request that it make provision for widening the pavement as rapidly as finances will permit.

It was pointed out that the commission now is engaged in paving full width the highway through the Montebello section to Whittier, and it was declared by Armitage that the work should be extended through this county as a matter of insuring safety of persons traveling the highway.

Coburn was picked up on a downtown street when his peculiar actions attracted attention. It was discovered that the young man has been considered a mental case for the past two years and has been in a government hospital at Palo Alto. He left there last Saturday.

WALES HERE TO WITNESS POLO GAME

Prince is Welcomed from Air, Land and Sea on Arrival at New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Officially and unofficially welcomed in messages from air, land and sea, the Prince of Wales reached America today.

The first official word of welcome was a wireless from President Coolidge, transmitted from an airplane which soared high above the Berengaria as she nosed her way in.

Lands at Long Island

The public welcome such as would have been his had he come to the city was impossible because the Prince, after acknowledging the official greetings, had arranged to assume an unofficial holiday role and go without ceremony to Long Island in a private launch.

The Berengaria reached quarantine at 2:25 p. m. Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, and a small group of the Prince's friends were all who greeted him personally, having gone down by the boat to meet the liner.

For a time America is to see little enough of the Prince, for final plans—final unless he himself counters them—are such that with the exception of those who catch a glimpse of him standing at Oyster Bay late this afternoon, it will be the people of Washington who first will get a good look at this winning young man.

WHEELER SAYS PLOT TO DISCREDIT PARTY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A plot to discredit the Independent presidential ticket lies behind the new charges of George Remus, Ohio bootleg king, it was declared here today by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, vice presidential candidate with La Follette.

Remus, in a sworn statement, is credited with having repudiated his former statements made before Wheeler's investigating committee.

Chief of Oyster Firm Dies in S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Frederick C. Morgan, 62 years old, president of the Morgan Oyster company of San Francisco, died suddenly of a stroke of apoplexy in his home at the Stanford Court apartments. He had been in ill health for some time. Soon after rising from the dinner table with his wife, Mrs. Mary Morgan, the elderly man fell into a faint and expired within a few minutes. Attending physicians said he had long suffered high blood pressure, and efforts to relieve his condition had been unavailing.

Pilfered Smokes Sicken Boy of 15

Boast Betrays Four Murderer

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 29.—A general disposition and the tendency of cigars to make young boys sick combined to cause the arrest of a 15-year-old boy by Patrolman Miller.

The theft of a box of cigars was reported to police by the owner of a cigar stand at Fifth and University avenue. Soon after came the report that boy was distributing cigars to all his young friends in the neighborhood. Upon investigation, the officer found a youngster exceeding sick from the effects of nicotine and promptly arrested him.

Harold Dannatt, 18, who was said to have boasted that he knew the identity of the slayers, was arrested Saturday night and confessed, officials announced. The others, later arrested, are: Arnold Diers, Clarence Diers, a brother of Arnold, and Harold Smith.

Portland Woman Claims Smallest Monkey in Land

PORLAND, Ore., Aug. 29.—Introducing Leo, the smallest monkey in captivity and the only resident of Portland who has to be kept in a cage to prevent him from taking to the woods.

Leo is unusual in two regards.

In the first place, there's the size. He is a monk instead of a monkey because he's too tiny to be described by a word two syllables long.

Secondly, he's extraordinary because he is a wedding present that arrived two and a half years late.

He belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Walter de V. Bealey of the Rose-

Friend apartments.

Bealey, who is now attached to the public service commission, and Captain Harold Thorsen were aviators together overseas during the late quarrel.

Long after they separated, Thorsen heard that his old friend and Miss Helen Hammersley had been married. At the time Thorsen happened to be in Ecuador, where even the news of The Telegram's society page penetrates slowly.

Anyhow, when Thorsen got it, the news was years old. Nevertheless, he racked his brain for some out-of-the-way present he could send. Leo was the answer.

Mrs. Bealey thinks Leo—he is of the Leo species, and is called Leonidas for short—is probably the smallest monkey in America, and maybe the only one of his kind here.

Brown, and white, and red, and black, he stands, from where his tail starts to where his head ends, seven inches tall.

On the other hand, or rather, the other end, or rather, he has a black and brown tail just twice as long as his body. He is 3 years old.

A short tuft of snow white fuzz projects from his forehead. He has wide brown eyes. Mrs. Bealey says he acts almost as intelligent as the average American.

He drinks milk, and eats raw eggs, sitting up. And he drinks from a glass, rather than from a bottle.

YOUTH CAUGHT IN HOLDUP ATTEMPT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Early morning Market street pedestrians captured and turned over to the police Louis Metzger, 20, after he had attempted to holdup and fired a shot at William Weinstein, proprietor of Weinstein's department store, 1037 Market street, yesterday morning.

Weinstein says he was attracted by some one banging on the front door. He found young Metzger. "Will you sell me a pair of overalls?" the youth asked hurriedly. "I've gotta be at work at 8 o'clock and I can't wait until the stores open or I'll lose my job."

Weinstein let him in and took him to the rear of the store, where the youth suddenly flashed an automatic.

"Hold up and lead me to the money," came the command.

Instead Weinstein ducked behind the counter, and the young holdup man opened fire at him. The bullet missed Weinstein, but shattered a plate glass window. The robber fled from the store, but was captured on the street by a dozen plucky pedestrians, who held him.

Home Is Wrecked By Bobbed Hair

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—She bobbed her hair.

Her husband had objected, as so many husbands do, but Mrs. Ethel Ware, whose locks match her black eyes, went to a beauty shop anyway and told them to do their best.

When Charles Ware, the young husband, arrived home that night, at Strode and Felton avenues, northeast of Independence, he lost his self control, Mrs. Ware told Henry Chastain, justice of the peace in Independence.

Mrs. Ware said her husband struck her with his fist and kicked her, and she desired to charge him with assault.

Ware was arrested and released on $200 bond pending hearing at 2 o'clock Friday.

Plea of Guilty Saves Brother

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—The love of one brother for another showed itself in the criminal court of Judge Thad B. Landon.

Tony Cassatta, 18 years old, and Sam Cassatta, 19, who live at 426 Jackson avenue, were indicted July 14 by the grand jury on larceny charges. The brothers were charged with stealing a motor car belonging to Joseph Roberts, 3225 Roberts street, May 11, and one from M. Snyder, 4203 Woodland avenue, April 29.

They were arrested in possession of the cars and placed in the county jail.

They appeared before Judge Landon.

"Guilty or not guilty?" the judge asked.

The younger brother, Tony, spoke up:

"I took the cars; my brother is not to blame."

He was sentenced to serve four years in the penitentiary on both charges, the sentences to run concurrently.

"This way" said the court attendant as he led him back to his cell while the older brother walked out of the courtroom, free.

Marriage Bared As Man Suicide

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—Robert Earl Norfleet, 23 years old, a member of the police band, and banjo player in the Haley dance orchestra at Fairyland park, killed himself in his apartment in the Studio building.

The tragic death, the result of a bullet fired in despondency, revealed he was married, a fact that had been kept secret so he could better aid his brothers, who also live in the Studio building.

His wife, Mrs. Edith Norfleet, formerly of Fort Wayne, Ind., told of the struggle she encouraged her husband to make to regain his health, which broke a few weeks ago, and carry on until they should be able to go to the country in the fall.

Mrs. Norfleet lives in an apartment at 536 Woodland avenue.

The Black Cat and the Two White Kittens

Here, in the feedstore, we have a coal-black cat; and she has two snow-white kittens. Kind of funny, ain't it? I suppose that the biological student would call this "an interesting variation of type" or possibly "a recession to original ancestral traits". The unthinking highbrow would probably call it—"a paradoxical incongruity." But the fact remains the cat is black and the kittens are white; and furthermore they are consanguineous cats.

This morning the old black cat crawled down off a high pile of baled hay, jumped lightly onto a stack of Big N Mash and tried to catch a fly that was dozing on one of the sacks. Not succeeding at that, she strolled up to the front of the store, where we keep the flower and vegetable seeds, and the poultry supplies, apparently looking for a mouse. Not finding a mouse, she went to the rear of the store and climbed up on the baled hay. The instant she reached the top of the hay pile, where the white kittens had been watchfully waiting, they both started a roughhouse with her. After she had stood this awhile she again jumped off the hay, walked down past piles of bran, beet-pulp, wheat, cracked corn, Big N Scratchfeed, etc., and got a drink of milk. Then she climbed back to her offspring. This time the kittens, instead of mistreating their mother immediately cajoled her into giving them a most sumptuous meal. In other words they evidently realized they could get no breakfast unless "Mother" had dined. I was wondering whether white kittens who have black mothers are all as observing as are ours; and—if any one in Orange County, who has a coal-black cat with two snow-white kittens, will please watch them closely and let me know—I will surely be much obliged.

ENOCH ARDEN LAW WIFE TO ASK FREEDOM

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Conjecture and mystery, with clues pointing either to secret foreign diplomacy or to an international underworld, have sprung from the application which Mrs. Anna Sophie Gredinger, No. 303 East 79th street, filed in the county clerk's office for a dissolution under the Enoch Arden law of her marriage to Waldemar G. Gredinger, who, she believes, is dead.

Mrs. Gredinger says he was married to Waldemar in December, 1917, and that they went to live at No. 181 West 80th street. Her husband disappeared in September, 1918.

Gredinger, according to his wife, said he was born in Austria, although he had a Swiss passport and swore he was born in Switzerland when he obtained their marriage license.

He was a man of polished manners and of apparent high birth," she declares. "He was an inventor, although he gave his occupation as a mechanic at the time of the marriage. He always maintained a great mystery about his past life, showed great interest in criminal cases appearing in the newspapers, and stated that he was afraid the Curtiss company was getting hold of his invention.

"He claimed he was inventing airplanes during the war, and wanted to reserve his invention for the German government." Mrs. Gredinger says her husband also told her he was suspected of being a German spy; and one evening in September, 1918, when he called to take her home he told her to go home alone; that he was being followed by detectives.

Instead of going home, Mrs. Gredinger says, she followed her husband and saw him meet and walk away with a man in sport clothes." That was the last she ever saw of him.

Good Borrower, Claim

Before he disappeared, Mrs. Gredinger said, her husband borrowed $4800 from her and removed all her trunks containing her belongings. Subsequently she discovered he had borrowed several thousand dollars from four of her friends.

He said he had been employed at one time by the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke corporation, No. 17 Battery place, she declared, and had been well acquainted with a broker named Johnson, with offices in the Waldorf-Astoria, in addition to being well known at the offices of J. P. Morgan and company.

Mrs. Gredinger asserts she called at all three places and found no one by the name of Gredinger known at any of them. Inquiries sent to the town in Switzerland given as his birthplace elicited the reply there was no record of his birth or residence there.

A creditor's petition has been filed in the federal court, Los Angeles, against Harper Brothers Commercial company, Inc. It became known here today that the company operates on West Fifth street, just west of the river, and is the owner of the tract of ground which the city now is using, under contract, as public dump grounds.

COUSINS SEEK TO ENTERTAIN BUREAU CHIEF

E. O. Bradfute, president of the American federation of farm bureaus, is likely to find himself in a peculiar predicament on his arrival here September 6, to attend the Southern California farm bureau picnic to be given in his honor at the Orange county park.

Bradfute happens to have a large number of "kinfolk" in Orange county, and all are "insisting" that he "stay at our house" while he is in the county.

In an effort to "get the jump" on the other members of the family, several cousins of the chief of the farm bureaus, have stormed the offices of the farm bureau here, in an effort to get the officials of the local organization to use their influence with the president, in an effort to "land" him at their home, during his stay here.

"We have been jumped almost every day for the past several, by relatives of President Bradfute, and today there were three cousins who came in, to ask us to place the president with them during his stay here," A. M. Stanley, secretary, who has charge of the picnic, said.

Stanley stated that Mrs. W. M. Smart, of 714 North Main street, who is a cousin, would have the honor of entertaining the "chief," so far as the farm bureau was concerned, as she was the first to make her bid. Other cousins and relatives of Bradfute, are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Walker of El Modena, W. W. Anderson, 416 East 6th street, and C. C. Collins, 620 Orange avenue.

$1,500,000 Found
On Lost Vessel

LONDONDERRY, Ireland, Aug. 29.—Success has met the efforts of the divers who are salvaging the gold and silver aboard the White Star liner Laurentic, sunk by a mine off the mouth of Lough Swilly in January, 1917, drowning 260 persons. When the ship went down, it carried with it about $34,000,000 in gold. By July, 1920, $15,000,000 had been recovered. The members of the crew of the salvage ship Racer have been working on the Laurentic since the end of the war.

A few days ago, reports reaching this city state, $1,500,000 was discovered in a room in the forward part of the vessel. This room was located in a spot that divers had many times passed by, not knowing of the priceably sums there. This is believed to be part of the $35,000,000 gold shipment, consigned to American bankers. All of this has now been recovered.

Held Murderer of Daughter-in-law

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Matthew E. Gage, 61 years of age, has been held in the Oakland city prison on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, with intent to commit murder, since he shot Mrs. Bertha Gage, his daughter-in-law, twice in the back because she ejected him from her home, was charged with murder as a result of the sudden death of the girl at her home, 862 Twentieth street, Oakland.

Samuel N. Jackson of Ukiah, father of the girl, accompanied by Miss Mary Jackson, his daughter, appeared before Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell and swore to the warrant. Jackson had submitted to three blood transfusions at Oakland Central hospital in an effort to save her life. Surgeons believed the girl, a bride of four months, was on the road to recovery and removed her to her home, but she died suddenly. She was the wife of Floyd costumed "The Sea Hawk," now at the Imperial theater.

"Costume plays have become a feature of motion picture production," Israel said. "Their success depends upon the accurate costuming of the players. A hundred thousand dollars and more was spent on costumes for 'The Sea Hawk.' A similar amount will be expended to costume the players in 'East of Suez.'

"I am going 'east of Suez' to obtain data for the costumes of the next big Frank Lloyd production. I shall go into the interior of China, down to Java and the Malay states, to Calcutta and the interior of India, then to Egypt. The final month of the month will be used to view the continent."

Israel is a San Francisco man. Ten years ago he went to Hollywood to build up a costume business, in conjunction with the motion picture industry. He has served Norma Talmadge, Jackie Coogan and other of the featured producers of Hollywood's greatest pictures.

Film Costumer to Sail for Orient

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Walter J. Vacation Gayeties
Forest Home

As the summer months speed away at Forest Home where Santa Anans love to congregate, the festivities amid the soaring pine trees, continue unabated. In fact as September school bells begin to ring in imagination and recall families to town houses and the duties of the school year, 'twould seem that every possible bit of enjoyment must be crowded into the few remaining days in camp.

The Rev. F. T. Porter and Mrs. Porter who have just concluded a two weeks' stay in the Sturgeon cabin, have proven most popular with the summer colony and have added greatly to the gayeties at the pavilion where parties are staged nightly. Each Sunday night of their stay, the Rev. Mr. Porter spoke briefly but in his usual eloquent manner and Mrs. William G. Knox sang. Mrs. Knox with little Miss Marjorie, has spent the summer in camp with Mr. Knox commuting from his duties at the city engineer's office, at the end of every week. Mrs. Knox's lovely voice makes her a popular member of the colony and is always at the disposal of her friends.

At present the John Cochran's who have just returned from a summer in Kansas, are at their cottage with the Knox family.

One lively event of the Porters' stay was an evening of magic which the Rev. Mr. Porter presented to the mystification and pleasure of the crowd. Mrs. Porter's delightful readings proved as popular. On last Monday evening they gave a farewell frolic when Mr. Porter proved his versatility by making taffy and everybody in camp, both young and old joined in the fun of a taffy-pull, although it was whispered that a few false teeth were dislodged.

At the J. S. Runyan cabin where Mr. Runyan is showing a marked improvement in health, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks and Mrs. Harriet Earl have been staying while their own cabin is being built. Week-end guests of the Runyan's have been Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lindley and son Kenneth, and Mrs. Lindley's mother, Mrs. Devitt all of Medicine Lodge, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Lindley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barker spent last weekend at the Barker cabin and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Barker will spend the Labor Day holiday there, entertaining as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Ford. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cloyes are among others who will spend Labor Day in camp planning to entertain a few friends at the Cloyes cabin.

Sixty-Three Years of Wedlock Celebrated in Santa Ana Home

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Shaver at the time of their marriage in Plymouth, Ohio in 1861, and again in 1924, at the sixtieth anniversary of that wedding.

On a sunny day in August, 1861, back in Plymouth, Ohio, when pretty Elizabeth Wintingham with her long glossy curls, became the bride of young Lewis Shaver, did the young people have their golden dreams of a happy future colored by the thought that sixty-three years hence they would be celebrating that wedding day in the sun-clime of California?

If so, that dream came true yesterday when at their Santa Ana home, 452 West Eighth street, surrounded by children and grandchildren they greeted loving friends who called in honor of the event.

White-haired and clear eyed, Mr. and Mrs. Shaver are an unusually handsome couple who go smiling along life's pathway and who extended their usual friendly greeting yesterday from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. Their home was filled with flowers. Tall spikes of amaryllis smiled at dahlias whose golden tones suggested the long-passed golden wedding celebrated over a decade ago. A bowl of luscious fruit centering the tea table, was symbolic of life's rich harvest for the happy pair.

Mr. Shaver and his bride were born on adjoining farms back in Ohio but the families separated while the children were very young and the two never met again until each was seventeen. From that time on the young man was faithful in his attentions to the pretty Elizabeth Wintingham and she became his wife after several years courtship, when both were just twenty-one. The wedding was a home one and their best man was present three years ago when the sixtieth anniversary was observed.

After the wedding, in the good old style of that day, the entire company repaired to the groom's home where the "in fair" was held amid much rejoicing and feasting.

For many years the couple lived on a fertile Ohio farm where their three children were reared. Seventeen years ago last March they came to California from Columbus, Ohio, to establish their home and have lived here ever since with their only daughter, Elleneora Shaver at home with them.

One son, L. B. Shaver, with his family resides at Escondido while the remaining member of the family, Morgan D. Shaver, lives in Columbus, Ohio.

The grand-children are Roland Shaver who with his wife came over from Long Beach for yesterday's celebration, Miss Altha Shaver, Lewis Jr., and Norris Shaver and little Leoma, the youngest grand-child, all of Escondido and Maurice B. Shaver of Columbus.

The son in Ohio was unable to be present at the anniversary but was represented by an excellent photograph which arrived yesterday morning together with many messages of congratulation from other relatives and friends unable to be present. Among the latter were their pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Perry F. Schrock, who sent a letter of greeting.

Those who called during the afternoon were regaled with iced punch, home made cake and Neopolitan ice cream and enjoyed an entertaining program of radio music and of readings given cleverly by Miss Etta Hale.

One coincidence of the afternoon came when William Masseller of Atlantic, Iowa, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Newman, and C. H. Marcher discovered they had been boyhood chums together although they had not met for many years.

Norris Shaver, a grandson and Clifton Carpenter of Escondido have been house guests in the Shaver home for the past ten days, remaining for yesterday's celebration.

Others who called during the afternoon included Messrs. and Mesdames F. B. Royce, George W. Kettle, H. C. Marcher, Fred Flinut, W. H. Cross, S. G. Newman, E. A. Noe, Martin V. Taylor, Herbert R. Greenwald, Mesdames Hartie L. Jones of Santa Monica, Emma Pendell, Charles Goodchild and son Billy, A. J. Knight, E. Bohling, Mary S. Emerson, N. Travis, Iona Sharp, Mary Marston, Mannie Smith, Eleanor Young Elliott, Velma Kenney, Miss Etta Hale, Miss Gladys Flinut, Miss Berenice Flinut, Miss Ruth Greenwald, Miss Eulalia McCombs, William Masseller of Atlantic, Iowa, Darrell Greenwald, and the members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Roland S. Shaver, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Shaver, Miss Altha Shaver, Elleneora Shaver, Lewis Shaver Jr., and little Leoma Shaver.

Sew All Day for Preventorium

Devoting the day to sewing for the children of the Preventorium, members of the Jolly Dozen card club who were entertained yesterday at the home of Mrs. John Rudolph, 921 Hickory street in Kilson square.

Dahlias in a wide variety of brilliant colors were used in decking the home and tables were arranged for five hundred. Mrs. H. A. Shugart received high honors with Mrs. J. W. Markel, second, and Mrs. George Young, consolation.

Following the games Mrs. Rudolph delighted her guests with delicious apple pie served with whipped cream and coffee. All accepted an invitation from Mrs. Charles Schmidelberg to meet with her in two weeks.

The places of three absent members, Mrs. Dryer, Mrs. Olive Lopez and Mrs. Katherine Oehlke of Orange, were taken by Mrs. M. P. Lynch, Mrs. H. Edwards and Miss Anne Young while other guests were Mrs. George Young, Mrs. W. J. Schonberg, the Misses Barbara and Bertha Klatt, Mrs. H. A. Shugart, Mrs. J. W. Markel, Mrs. Frank Koss and Mrs. Charles Schmidelberg.

Mrs. C. C. Violet, one of the leaders in the Preventorium plan, was present and gave a stirring description of the camp, its origin and its little under-nourished children who are deriving such splendid benefits from their life in the open.

Enough garments were completed at the meeting to equip ten children for school, so the class members feel that their day was decidedly well spent.

MANUFACTURER SHOT IN FIGHT WITH BANDITS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Philip Jensen, a matress manufacturer, was twice wounded in a desperate battle with two holdup men who stopped his automobile at Twelfth and Mission streets early yesterday morning.

Commanded to stop by the two robbers, who threatened him with pistols, Jensen was struck on the head by one of the pair from the running board of the machine.

Jensen seized the man's pistol and a struggle ensued, during which the second robber ran around to the other side of the car and fired three shots point blank at Jensen, wounding him twice.

File Defects Bullet

The third shot was deflected from a vital spot by a small nail file which the victim carried in his pocket.

Dazed from the wounds, Jensen was subdued by the robbers, who stripped him of his watch and chain and a diamond scarf pin valued at $200 and escaped.

Reviving somewhat, but still dazed, Jensen drove his car three miles to his Seventh avenue home where he awakened his wife and recounted his experience.

Wounds Not Serious

Mrs. Jensen summoned a taxicab and took her husband to the Central Emergency Hospital, where it was found that one bullet had clipped the lobe of his right ear, second had inflicted a superficial wound in his left thigh and the third had pierced two holes in his coat and clipped in two pieces a small metal file in his pocket, preventing the bullet from entering his left side at the waist. In addition he suffered a laceration of the scalp where he had been struck.

Description Lacking

Jensen could not furnish the police with an accurate description of his assailants.

"It all happened so quickly that I did not get a good look at either of them," Jensen said. "I battled them in the hope that I could get my car started and get away.

"When they stopped me I was not sure they were holdup men and unconsciously slowed down. Without warning, one of them struck me on the head with his pistol, and instinctively I grappled with him. When the other started shooting and I felt myself hit and did not know how seriously, I pretended that I was unconscious hoping that my life would be spared."

'TRUCK LOAD' THEFT YOUTHS ADMIT GUILT

Accused of robbing a store near Westminster of a "truckload" of groceries and tobacco, stealing two revolvers at Long Beach and attempting to rob a service station at Redondo Beach, Fred Newton, 18, and Ralph B. Murphy, 20, today were in the county jail here facing charges of burglary. Both youths have confessed their crimes to local deputies, it was declared at the sheriff's office.

According to Chief Criminal Deputy Ed McClellan, who with Constable Jesse Elliott late yesterday brought the arrested pair from Redondo to Santa Ana, the youths on August 20 stole several boxes of cigars, cartons of cigarettes, a case of soap, two sacks of flour and a large quantity of canned goods from the grocery of A. N. Olsen, two miles west of Westminster.

Several days later, according to McClellan, the young men stole two revolvers in Long Beach. They were arrested by police at Redondo Beach while they were attempting to steal from a service station, the officer stated. At the Redondo police station the stolen revolvers were found in their possession. Believing that the Orange county authorities had a "better case" against Murphy and Newton, McClellan explained, the Redondo and Long Beach authorities agreed to relinquish their claims so that the effect was exactly the same as that of the Miles Standard triangle.

When he saw his wife's love cooling, Carman said, he sent his best friend, John Carpenter, employee of the San Francisco Customs House, to plead with his wife in his (Carman's) behalf. His friend and emisary went to Mrs. Carman right enough, Carman testified, but he talked to her in his (Carpenter's) behalf, to all result. Mrs. Carman finally told her husband, he testified, that she no longer loved him, and that she had transferred her affections to "somebody else." The somebody else was Carpenter, Carman declared. He got the divorce.

About three miles from the town of St. Helena rises a solitary peak called Glass Mountain. This peak is apparently disconnected from the range, but a close examination shows a low ridge connecting it with the adjoining hills. On the northwest slope lies a great bed of volcanic ash. Carter had been granted his full claim of $149 for wages and material, furnished while he was an employee of Mrs. Youngs, when Justice G. W. Ingle first heard the case at Orange last April. Disposition was agreed on by representatives of the district attorney's office and Attorneys A. E. Koepsel and Roland Thompson, counsel for the defendants.

COMMANDER OF LEGION TO AID DEFENSE DAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Calling upon Governor Richardson to designate September 12 as Defense Day for such observances as may be proper under the proclamation of President Coolidge, State Commander, Nathan F. Coombs, of the American Legion, has issued another pledge on behalf of the ex-service men of California to observe Defense Day and to put the opposition talk of "Hair-brained Pacifists" down.

"The American Legion is heartily in favor of, and approves the National plan for Defense Day," declares Commander Coombs. "If a National Defense Day is not necessary, then why have an army, navy and marine corps; why have forts on the hills above the Golden Gate; why have a submarine base in the South; why have lighthouses and lightships to protect the commerce of the seven seas?"

"Preparedness makes for better living, more economy in government, state and city, in business and in homes; it teaches unselfishness, and above all, self-sacrifice," says Coombs.

James K. Fisk, State Adjutant of the Legion, has received an acknowledgement from President Coolidge approving the Defense Day resolution adopted by the Legion at the recent state convention at Santa Cruz.

The Daughters of the American Revolution through their President-general, Lora Haines Cook, has also expressed approval of the stand taken by the California Legionnaires.

Drifted on Floe

A thrilling Arctic exploit is recalled by the recent death of its last survivor, Charles Kruger. In 1871 the Polaris left the Brooklyn navy yard bound for the North Pole. Just after arriving at Thank God Harbor, Greenland, Captain Hall died of a mysterious illness. Then the Polaris ran into a storm, the ship was to be seen. Not until 1873 was the group cast adrift on the ice floe on which they were marooned had drifted fifteen hundred miles. Mr. Kruger returned to New York after this adventure and served for more than thirty years as a pilot on a Thirty-fourth street ferry.—From the New York Times.

BEAUTY HELD AS FORGER DOES TALKING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.

Faced with charge of forgery, embezzlement and violation of a five-year probationary period granted in 1919 by Superior Judge Roche when she was before him charged with grand larceny, Jean Olmstead, 606 Geary street, arrested Friday night on an embezzlement charge upon complaint of her employer, chatted about dogs yesterday and appeared not to be the least worried over her predicament.

In fact, dogs were the only things she would talk about after a brief conference with her attorney, C. M. Flickert.

"My attorney has told me to say nothing," was her stock reply to all questions touching upon the accusations made by A. M. Hardy, contractor living at 518 Twenty-fourth avenue, by whom she was employed as an expert accountant.

For two years, Detectives Charles Maher and James Hansen assert, Miss Olmstead, as an expert accountant in the contractor's employ, has systematically raised checks, and by that system has embezzled a sum estimated at about $15,000. During that time she has reported monthly to the probation officers of the court.

"I don't know anything about it, but here is a lot in the paper if that will help you," was the answer she made when asked directly about it.

An attractive young woman of 30 years, Miss Olmstead has charm, combined with quickness of mind.

"Because I laugh and seem to be anything but serious, don't think that I don't realize just what I'm up against," she pleaded.

"I know well enough, but it isn't going to do me a bit of good to be soggy about it. Anything is better if you can manage to smile about it."

"I suppose I might have known that this would come, anyway."

Police officials allege Miss Olmstead's real name is Mrs. M. King Kelly and that her husband is in Los Angeles.

Records in the police bureau of identification show that twice in 1919 Miss Olmstead was placed under arrest. At that time she was booked under the name of Jean Wilkinson. She was convicted upon a charge of grand larceny preferred by a music dealer at 233 Post street. The sum involved was $300 and Judge Roche, sitting for

LAW GUARDIAN HALTS YOUTHS IN TOUR WEST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 29.—

"Giddap, Nellie! Get along there!" A small overall-clad boy was prodding a small pony with a rather ineffective limb from behind, while his tiny confederate tugged at the quadruped's opposite terminus.

If the picture attracted little interest from passersby on Third street, near the union station in Atchison, Kas., yesterday, it was because it had become a commonplace.

After several minutes of obduracy, and then for no good reason whatsoever, Nellie yielded. Her two keepers vaulted to her back, the journey was resumed, and the trio soon drew up before the station platform. Their mount having been hastily tethered, the two horsemen entered the waiting room of the little station.

The two were John Garside, 9, and his small brother "Bill" who, by his own announcement, is "most seven."

Fare to Boise, Idaho.

Two hours later, something after 6 o'clock—they were in another union station—in Kansas City. Bright paper bills from a billboard which one of the pair had "found" in some mysterious manner, were buying all sorts of tempting candies and fruits. The orgy of spending did not last long, however, for small travelers who carry loaded bill purses are looked upon with suspicion in the union station and sooner or later are turned over to the Travelers' Aid staff for questioning. So with the Atchison tourists.

"We're on the way to Idaho," John volunteered, when the pair was intercepted a few minutes later. "Boise, Idaho," "Bill" corroborated. "Our gamma lives there."

Both boys, however, admitted their prank since it was discovered the transportation to Boise was $50.

"We know it cost a lot to go from Atchison," the senior traveler explained, "but we thought maybe it wouldn't be so much from Kansas City."

Then he added: "But we haven't got enough money anyhow." Investigation revealed a balance of just $8 in the billfold. Neither of the boys could satisfactorily explain its possession.

While Pony Waits.

"Nellie must be getting hungry by now," John suddenly pondered aloud, drowsing from the subject then under discussion.

"And thirsty, too." This last from little "Bill." "Maybe we better go back home now," he added as his small chin began to quiver. "We'll get a paddling—"

"I'll tell you what we'll do," John interrupted. He still retained most of his 9-year-old bravado. "If we can get a train right back so we can get there by 9 o'clock, we can go home and mamma will think we have been just riding around all day."

The arrival of Uncle Will—William G. Tull—314 West Forty-fifth street, interrupted this line of reasoning.

John was lectured on the dangers awaiting little boys who ran away from home and, more particularly, those who "kidnapped" their little brothers and coaxed them away too.

He grew very sober when a policeman told him about the cells at the police station. Then the telephone rang. A telegram had reached the boys' parents. Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Garside, in Atchison. They had supposed the boys were at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis. Mrs. Garside replied she would come to Kansas City on the next train to take the runaways home.

So for the time being, they went home with Uncle Will. A bit tearful, too, as both boys revived thoughts of the expected paddling.

CHEST PLANS DISCUSSED AT MEETING HELD LAST EVENING

Eight Welfare Organizations Represented at Conclave in Chamber

NO ACTION IS TAKEN

Conference Will be Held in September When Final Plans are to be Adopted

Another step towards the organization of a Community Chest for Santa Ana, was taken at a meeting of representatives of eight welfare organizations, held in the council chamber of the City Hall last night, when the project, as approved by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, several days ago, was outlined and discussed by the representatives.

Organizations represented at last night's meeting were: Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Red Cross, Day Nursery, Veterans Welfare Fund and the Anti-tuberculosis Society.

Another meeting will be held by the organizations on Friday, September 26, at which time, definite action will be taken on the Chest, and if decision is made to organize here, directors and other officers will be elected at that time.

Discusses Plans

The meeting last night was merely for the purpose of acquainting the various agencies of the plan, and to discuss plans pertaining to ways and means of organization, to hear suggestions, and to discuss various points affecting certain of the agencies who are expected to become members in the project.

The various representatives of the local organizations are to meet with the directors of their agencies some time within the next thirty days and decide whether that particular organization desires to become associated in a Community Chest. These directors are expected at the next meeting, at which time they have been asked to be prepared for a statement as to the amount of money their organization will need, for the calendar year of 1925.

It was stated during the discussion last night that it would not be possible for the Community Chest to start operating before January 1, 1925.

It was announced that a town the size of Santa Ana has been known to successfully handle a fund of approximately $176,000, and that the average amount for a town of this size, ran from $40,000 to $80,000. This amount is expected to be much more than is needed here, according to Roland Dye, chairman of the committee, who had charge of the meeting last night, and who stated that for cities of this size, in Southern California, budgets did not exceed $40,000. Although nothing was said at the meeting regarding the amount of money that would be dispensed here each year through the Community Chest, it was intimated that a chest of $40,000, would take care of all needs in this county.

GIRL UNKNOWN TO FILMDOM IS SELECTED BY BARRIE TO PLAY LEAD IN "PETER PAN"

BETTY BRONSON

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—Here is motion picture romance to make young blood leap and young ambition palpitate—Betty Bronson's selection to play "Peter Pan" in the forthcoming screen version of Sir James Barrie's immortal elfin tale.

Yesterday an unknown in films, Miss Bronson has been catapulted among the stars by a word from the English novelist and playwright. She was named from hundreds of competitors, many of them of first screen magnitude, and Barrie's choice is enthusiastically endorsed by Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky and other Paramount officials who will produce the picture.

Betty, who will be "Peter," the "little boy who refused to grow up," is 17. She has had some dramatic motion picture training. But she has hitherto been a little movie wall-flower, seen only in brief glimpses.

Born in Trenton, N. J., she was brought to Hollywood at the age of 3, returning to New York at 8; for five years' rigorous training as a ballet dancer, being at one time the pupil of the celebrated Fokine.

With Alice Brady

Two years ago she made her modest debut on the screen with Alice Brady in Paramount's "Anna Ascends." Since then she had been merely one of a thousand struggling novices.

But she had what Jesse L. Lasky is handling the defense.

FIST FIGHT IS DEFENSE MADE IN L.A. COURT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—The tragic outcome of a fist fight over a traffic crash was revealed today in Superior Judge Carlos Hardy's court where H. F. Washburn went on trial for manslaughter as a result of the death of Foster D. Haley.

The killing, one of the most unusual homicides ever recorded, occurred after the automobiles of the two men collided at First street and Vermont avenue on February 27.

A quarrel over the responsibility for the accident arose between Washburn and Haley. Although the damage was limited to a bent fender, the discussion grew heated and, finally, according to the charge, blows were struck.

Deputy District Attorney Wayne Jordan is prosecuting Washburn while Attorney W. I. Gilbert is handling the defense.

KLANSMEN TO MARCH MONDAY AT BEACH CITY

Huntington Beach Makes Preparations to Care for Labor Day Throngs

A parade at 11 a. m. by 500 hooded and mounted Klansmen will be a feature of the Labor Day celebration at Huntington Beach Monday, it was announced today by Carl Goetz, organizer for the Klan.

The organizer stated that Tom Lewis, former newspaper man of Santa Ana, and now Grand Exalted Cyclo of the Klan in Los Angeles would be one of the speakers of the day. The parade will be headed by a Klan band of seventy-five pieces.

Goetz said the meeting would be one of two large gatherings of Klansmen Labor Day in Southern California.

Plans have been completed for proper regulation of traffic in the beach city and abundance of parking space provided, according to the local organizer.

"We will have free parking for 20,000 automobiles," he said.

According to J. A. Armitage, secretary of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, Huntington Beach is making preparation for entertaining 20,000 visitors Monday.

So far as Orange county is concerned activities in celebration of the holiday will center in Huntington Beach, although a number of small picnics are announced for Orange county park.

GLACIAL RIVER SWEEPS DOWN SHASTA'S SIDE

McCLOUD, Calif., Aug. 29.—More havoc was being done today by the river of mud flowing from the glacial pocket of Mount Shasta under the urge of unmitigating heat.

The McCloud River railroad line into the back country, upon which numerous hydro-electric construction camps, lumber camps and small communities depend for their supplies, has been piled high with debris. As fast as maintenance of way gangs cut through the drift of morainal sand, more comes down.

McCloud has been without water for many hours, the mains crushed or swept away by the mud stream.

With the railroad and highway blocked, the supply of water is meager and difficult to obtain.

The Mount Shasta National forest in the vicinity of the mud deposit, which now covers twelve square miles of valley land with a hard crust many feet thick, has been closed to sightseers because of the danger from fire.

The situation here is fast becoming acute and no relief is in sight.

Three weeks ago two glaciers high on the side of the 14,000 foot mountain slipped from their prehistoric moorings and thundered down to find rest in a great pocket. Here the sun has beaten unceasingly upon the ice mass, causing a seemingly inexhaustible torrent of mud, sand, great boulders and chunks of ice to pour down Mud Canyon, sweeping all before it to the valley below.

DAM TOPIC OF MEETING SOON AT PASADENA

S. H. Finley of Santa Ana is a member of a committee appointed recently at Long Beach by the Boulder Dam association to invite municipalities of Southern California to send delegates to a meeting to be held at Pasadena September 17 for discussion of the project.

Hiram W. Wadsworth of Pasadena is the chairman of the committee.

"We propose to perfect an organization of cities strong enough to finance the proposition," Wadsworth was quoted as saying. "Water from the Colorado river will settle once and for all southern California's water problems."

Outside of the American Federation of Labor there are organizations of workers with an estimated total membership of 600,000, of which 400,000 are accredited to the "Big Four" railroad brotherhoods.

of Famous Players-Lasky enumerates as, "The joyous spirit of eternal youth, the comedy-pathos, the extraordinary grace, and the frank zest for life and its dramatic expression which make her the ideal 'Peter Pan' who flew through the window to sustain our belief in fairies."

For the past year the guest for a player to take the title role of Sir James Barrie's play has excited keen interest among theater-goers and intimate interest among Hollywood's screenlings. Tests of every player possible in the role had been made. When Herbert Brenon, who will direct the picture, left for London a few weeks ago to consult with Barrie, he carried a trunkload of these test films.

Before Brenon left Hollywood both he and Lasky had fixed their choice on Miss Bronson, but they kept their preference secret. In New York, Zukor saw the tests and made the same choice. Independently again, Barrie named his favorite.

His cablegram left a dozen film stars who had coveted the role gasping, but it sent obscure Betty into transports of delight. "I'm the luckiest girl in the world," she stammered in confusion of smiles and tears.

Always A Woman

Always the whimsical role of "Peter Pan" has been played by a woman. Miss Bronson is heir to a long line of distinguished "Pans" on the speaking stage—the youngest of them all.

It was first played in the Duke of York theater in London in 1904 with Nina Baucraft in the title part. Maude Adams played it in 1905 and continued for three years successively, later resuming the role in 1911 to 1913. In 1905, Clisse Loftus also played it in London. Pauline Chase, Madge Titheradge, Unity Moore, Fay Compton, Faith Celli, Georgette Cohan, Edna Best, Joan MacLean and Madge Cooper have since essayed "Peter."

Betty Bronson is a gray-eyed, dark-haired little sprite whose experience in being lifted from the nether ranks of movie folk to the pinnacle of opportunity has seldom if ever been duplicated in pictures.

She did it, won that chance, by movie's modern magic of being transported in a can of celluloid across the seas for the appraising eye of the man who loosed the delightful "Peter" upon a delighted world.

Motorcycle And Auto Meet, Man Seriously Hurt

Refugio Rodriguez, 22, of West Fifth street, is expected to recover from his injuries received when his motorcycle collided with an automobile on North Main street and Laveta avenue early yesterday morning, according to a report at the Orange county hospital. The motorcyclist sustained a fractured skull and severe body bruises.

Clement Price of 1628 West Eighth street, took the unconscious form of the young Mexican to the county hospital where it was reported yesterday that the name of the autoist who had collided with Rodriguez was unknown. Today, however, H. Egge of 815 Mint street had notified officials at the sheriff's office here that he was driving north on Main street when the motorcyclist attempted to pass his car and had struck the rear wheel from behind. Egge said Price took the injured man to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, whereas county hospital attendants declared they had received the patient.

Egge was not placed under arrest.

TAMMANY HALL WILL SUPPORT JOHN W. DAVIS

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Tammany, the all powerful Democratic organization of New York, today threw its whole hearted support behind John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee.

Democratic leaders agree that the announcement by Judge George W. Olivany, new leader of Tammany, that September 9 is to be "Davis Day" in the wigwam, is the most encouraging development since the bitter fight in Madison Square Garden, where many Democrats thought that Governor Al Smith, their idol, failed to get a square deal.

Because of the bitterness engendered in the convention thousands of loyal New York Democrats have been sulking, despite the announcement of Smith that he would "take off his coat and vest and work for the nomination of Al Smith."

But the grumbling heard on every hand among the New York Democrats suddenly ceased when Davis denounced the Klan in his Seagirt speech.

Tammany leaders report to Democratic headquarters that thousands of members have come back into the fold.

Now comes the announcement that Tammany will put on a sort of Democratic mobilization day for Davis to demonstrate that the organization is solidly behind the national ticket.

Instead of regarding defeat in New York as inevitable, Democratic leaders now believe that Davis will carry the state with its 45 votes in the electoral college.

Mr. and Mrs. Leond C. Elliott of 1602 French street returned yesterday from a trip of about two weeks to Lake Tahoe, Sacramento and various other points of interest in the north.

A raise in the standard for students entering the Santa Ana junior college is announced for this year. No student will be admitted as a regular student unless recommended from the high school according to Hammond, who stated that in the past any student was admitted and credits given. "We will not admit any student this year that we could not recommend to the University of California or to Pomona or other universities.

Or, in some places, of 30 inches below normal rainfall, is to be lower than 20 years. They saw no forest fires, but in places small woodland fires had been extinguished. On the whole, they say that Orange county looks good to them and they are glad to be back here.

Instead of regarding defeat in New York as inevitable, Democratic leaders now believe that Davis will carry the state with its 45 votes in the electoral college.

Hammond stated the reason for this was because the junior college had become popular during the past two years and there was a threat to overload the school, it being necessary to make these reductions to prevent it.

"Parents like the idea of sending their children to the junior college here, so long as they can get everything they could get in colleges throughout the state, and for that reason we believe the junior college will be a big factor in our school system this year."

The Santa Ana school system will open this year with one new building—the new Roosevelt. This building, started after schools closed for the summer, is nearing completion, and according to the builders will be ready for occupancy by September 15. The new building is of ten class rooms, cost $87,000, and is located at the corner of First and Maple streets. The old Roosevelt school building has been moved to the side of the lot and will not be used, provided the new building is completed by the time the schools open.

Instead of regarding defeat in New York as inevitable, Democratic leaders now believe that Davis will carry the state with its 45 votes in the electoral college.

Hammond stated the reason for this was because the junior college had become popular during the past two years and there was a

TO PROSECUTE FLOODERS OF COUNTY ROADS

Farmers of Orange county who insist on cultivating the sides of the roads in the county, and who insist on irrigating this part of their crops, thereby flooding the highways, are likely to find themselves in the courtroom as defendants, according to a statement today by District Attorney A. P. Nelson.

The fact that water seeps onto the roads opposite their property, is prima facia evidence, within itself, according to Nelson, who stated that he would prosecute all cases of a like nature brought to his attention.

Efforts on the part of a farm bureau committee to obtain a motorcycle officer to patrol the roads and arrest farmers who use the sides of the highways to grow their crops, and who "turn" their farm machinery around on the highways, were unavailing today. Nelson advised the committee to take up their cause with the state highway police, but nothing was done today. He stated that it would be necessary to get evidence against farmers who are reported to be badly damaging the roads by running harrows, discs and tractors over the roads.

A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, stated today that it was likely that all farm center presidents in the county would be asked to have their farm centers investigate reports of road damage by farm machinery and would ask them also to gather the necessary evidence against "highway cultivators."

Stanley declared that 15 per cent of the cost of maintaining the roads in Orange county, resulted from damage caused by tractors and other farm implements.

The NERVOUS WRECK

by E. J. Rath
©1924 - by N.E.A. Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
The "Nervous Wreck" is an eccentric young sashimi who is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

Later Charles McSweeney, foreman of a ranch along the route, rides into Wreck's car, takes off his hat, and forces Wreck to act as ranch cook. Then they discover that Mr. Underwood, the owner of the ranch, was in the car which had been held by Sheriff Bob Wells. Sally's fiance is unwittingly searching the countryside for the "bandits" who held up Underwood.

After some sharp turns the Wreck succeeds in making an escape in their car. Now they come to a rutty trail which turns to the left.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Shall we try it?" she yawned.

"Get in."

He turned the flivver at a sharp angle and they left the main road. The new route began climbing a rise immediately, then dipped into a gulch. The Wreck found himself forced to drive with care, for there were sharp turns every few yards.

"There are lots of these old roads in this part of the country," commented Sally. "Most of them lead to mines that never panned out."

After some ten minutes of slow, but thrilling travel, she suggested a halt.

"This ought to be far enough," she said. "There are two ridges between us and the main road."

The Wreck stopped the car. The abrupt silencing of the motor left them in a stillness that was fairly startling. The place was dark, too, for there was a heavy growth of trees all about them, and the spreading light in the eastern sky did not reach them. As they sat for a minute trying to get the feel of their environment, Sally's hand crept over and sought the Wreck's arm. She was not nervous, exactly, but the touch of him reassured her.

Then her fingers clutched him with sudden fierceness, and she could feel his muscles tense under the grip.

"Did you hear that?" she whispered.

He had heard. It was the soft neigh of a horse.

She sprang to her feet, steadyng herself against his shoulder, and her eyes began searching in the gloom. An instant later she bent her head.

"There's a little fire off through the trees—to the right," she said, in a low voice. "We have run into somebody's camp."

"Let's go!" said the Wreck.

He was climbing out to crank the motor, when she clutched him again.

"Wait!" I can hear somebody coming. You'll never be able to turn around in this place.

He, too, could hear footsteps off in the brush. Reaching forward to the dash, he switched off the lights.

"Turn them on!" commanded Sally. "We're caught anyhow, and I'm not going to be pounced on in the dark."

He turned the lights on again, and they waited. The footsteps were cautious, but they were still approaching.

"Put the gun away," she whispered, as she saw him fumbling with it. "It's not loaded and you'll only get us into trouble. You can't run that kind of a bluff on Bob Wells, anyhow."

"Who else? Why, it's almost certain. Oh, of all the luck! We've run plumb into him! You let me do the talking, Henry Williams.

The footsteps were nearer.

CHAPTER XIX
Captured

Just as Sally's fingers were digging into his arm until he was ready to growl a protest, a voice came from the bushes beside the car. "You'd better get 'em right up in the air—quick!"

Sally raised her hands promptly, and the Wreck followed suit, after she commanded him.

Into the back glare of the headlights stepped a man who carried a rifle that looked ready for work.

"One of 'em's a woman," he called, evidently addressing somebody behind him.

There was no answer from the rear. It seemed that the matter of conversation had been left wholly in his hands.

"We'll take the pedigree," said the man with the rifle. "Any relation to the sheriff?"

"Plenty of relation," said Sally, promptly. "We want to see him."

There was a chuckle by way of answer.

"Sure you're looking for the sheriff?" he inquired. "I kind of figure he's asleep and don't want to be disturbed."

"You lead me to Bob Wells," said Sally. "I'm going to step right out of this car, and if you start anything with that gun you'll wish you'd never been born."

The Wreck followed her, and they stood beside the flivver, with a rifle muzzle not more than a yard distant from them.

"I'll talk to Bob Wells and nobody else," declared Sally, firmly.

"Are you speakin' serious?"

"I certainly am. And I'd advise you not to argue about it."

He muttered something that she could not hear, yet it conveyed the idea that his mind was in doubt. The Wreck remained passive during the colloquy. He did not need Sally's caution. Whatever might be required of him he felt that the time was not yet.

Besides, he was sure that Sally had the right idea. There was no need for dealing with subordinates when Bob Wells was on the ground. He was quite willing to face the sheriff.

"Lead me to the sheriff," said Sally.

There was a suppressed laugh from the figure that held the rifle. "I'll lead you," he said. "Come to think of it, I figure you'd better lead yourselves. You just lead for that camp-fire and I'll keep walking behind you. And don't forget I'm carrying a gun. Not that it makes any difference to me, but it might make a heap of difference to you."

TON FAMILY IN REUNION HERE; PICK OFFICERS

Southern California members of the California Branch of the Ton family today had resumed their usual vocations and avocations, following the reunion held here yesterday at Orange county park.

Sixty-five members of the clan registered at the reunion, according to Richard J. Ton, secretary of the state branch, who will continue in that position another year, following his re-election yesterday.

Thomas Bradshaw, of Los Angeles, was elected as president, and Phil Ton, of Yorba Linda, was chosen as vice president.

The next annual reunion of the local branch of the "largest incorporated family in the United States" will be selected by an executive committee to be named by the officers, the secretary said.

Coincident with the celebration here, hundreds of members of the family at Chicago celebrated the twenty-ninth anniversary of the incorporation of the company in Illinois.

"Since organization of the family in Chicago twenty-nine years ago, so many members have moved into Southern California that we decided a year ago to organize the California Branch," Ton said.

He said the membership of the family is around 800, approximately 100 of whom reside in California. Eighty to ninety are in Southern California and the remainder are located in San Francisco and other sections of the north, according to his statement.

According to the secretary, Phil Ton, of Yorba Linda, was the heaviest member of the group at the park, his weight being 245 pounds. A feature of the program was vocal numbers by the Ton Quartette, each member of which was in excess of six feet one inch in height.

IRVINE, PASADENA TO BATTLE SUNDAY

Making their final appearance before a vacation of some weeks during which the club will be renovated thoroughly, Irvine's Beanpickers Sunday afternoon will shoulder bats for a defense against the Pasadena Eagles, claimants to the Southern California semi-professional baseball title.

The contest will be played at Irvine park, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Having suffered five consecutive defeats, two to the Eagles and three to the Carlsbad nine, Trickey is determined to break the jinx Sunday.

"Red" Billman, diminutive right hander who used to chuck for both Irvine and the Commercial company, will probably get the mound assignment against Pasadena. He unrolled a brilliant brand of ball after he went to the ridge last week. Trickey believes he will be able to beat the semi-pro champs.

Artists of S. A. Place Paintings In Exposition

Two Santa Ana artists are numbered among those who have new oil paintings on exposition at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. building. The new paintings arrived here late yesterday from the West Coast Artists association, of Los Angeles and will be hung today and tomorrow. The Santa Ana artists are Evalina Nunn Miller and Mrs. H. F. Stone, of 1115 Spurgeon street.

Art expositions have been maintained at the "Y" for the past several months and the pictures that arrived here yesterday are to replace the old exhibition, which will be shipped back to Los Angeles for exposition elsewhere in Southern California.

Among the artists who have pictures in the new lot, are: Evalina Nunn Miller, Mrs. H. F. Stone, Dell Meadows, Alice Blair Thomas and Mrs. N. B. Mayhew.

The largest picture of the group is by Evalina Nunn Miller, and is "The Half-Dome, Yosemite."

Voting Tent Put Over Gas Leak

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—When election attendants of precinct 85 in Berkeley attempted to enter the voting tent located at Walnut and Rose streets, they were repulsed by an overwhelming odor of gas. Believing that a "plot" of some kind was under way to foil the voters of that vicinity they notified the police.

C. D. Lee, former acting chief of police and now head of the bureau of records, was detailed to investigate and discovered that the tent was located directly above an unusually large leak in one of the city gas mains. On account of laws governing the location of polling places it was necessary to gain permission from the county clerk's office before the tent could be moved.

With a warning not to move the tent to the north, which would place it in the adjoining precinct, Rose street being the boundary line of precinct 85, and instructions for placing signs to direct voters to the new location, permission was granted to move the tent and balloting was resumed with the offending gas mains several yards distant.

INDIAN SCOUT BURIED WITH FULL HONORS

ST. FRANCIS, S. D., Aug. 29.—Sam Terry, beloved "Si-Ksela" and squaw man of the Sioux, today was buried in the Rosebud Indian reservation here. Full military honors were accorded the old United States scout and former Indian fighter by the American Legion as his body was lowered to its last resting place.

Romance conquered Terry where Indian's arrows and bullets failed and won for the Redman of the West one of the greatest figures and champions in history.

Samuel Mark Terry, nephew of General Terry of Civil war and Indian fame, was born in New York Sept. 1, 1880. Sam joined the U. S. Army in 1888 and a gunshot wound received in the Civil war caused him to wear a silver quarter in his throat for the rest of his life.

Handicapped by the wound and by loss of his toes by freezing while he was engaged in army messenger and scout work for Uncle Sam around the army posts in the land of the Sioux Indians, Sam Terry continued in the Government service until romance conquered him.

His detachment was about to attack an Indian village in 1887, with orders to kill every man.

During the fighting figures were seen hiding in the tall grass. One of the soldiers was about to shoot when Sam ordered him to wait.

Search of the grass revealed two Indian maidens. After the attack one of these persisted in pursuing Terry until he became a squaw man and a real lover of the Indians.

GOAT PROBLEM DEBATE TOPIC FOR TRUSTEES

FULLERTON, Aug. 29.—The famous utterance, "pigs is pigs" might well have been paraphrased to "goats is goats" when the city trustees here debated the topic that has brought discord to many otherwise quite peaceable communities.

Whether goat aroma is sufficiently modified and diluted by a space of 50 feet between a pen and a dwelling was one of the points of argument.

Another was whether a goat should be kept on a city lot or relegated to pastures wide and airy outside of the settled districts of town.

The trouble was all precipitated when City Attorney F. H. Lyon presented an amendment to the domestic animal ordinance increas-

"SINGLE WIVES" TO END
YOST STAY TONIGHT.

One of the most beautiful of screen players to arrive via the beauty contest is Corinne Griffith, who is co-featured with Milton Sills in "Single Wives," which closes tonight at the Yost theater.

Corinne Griffith was born in Taxarkana, Tex., and lived for a period in and near Dallas. While she was in her early teens the Griffiths moved to Los Angeles, and it was there that she won a beauty contest at Santa Monica. A director witnessed the galaxy of beauties and decided that Miss Griffith would screen to perfection. He signed her up and she consequently appeared in several three-reelers, which marked her as the motion picture's most promising actress.

Her most famous characterizations have been in "The Common Law," "Black Oxen," "Lilies of the Field" and "Six Days."

Opposite Miss Griffith in "Single Wives," her latest photoplay, will be seen Milton Sills, Kathryn Williams, Lou Tellegen, Henry B. Walthall, Phyllis Haver, Phillips Smalley, Jere Austin and John Patrick also appear in the film.

"TRUE AS STEEL" OPENS AT WALKER'S.

Rupert Hughes, author, playwright, composer, scenarist and film director, again has proved that he is a master of the cinema as thoroughly as he is of the printed word.

"True as Steel," his latest screen work, which opens at Walker's theater tonight, is worthy to rank with "Souls for Sale," "Reno," "Gimme" and his other productions.

The story is of a business man and a business woman who have a violent love affair, but break it off and go back to their homes.

Aileen Pringle follows up her tremendous success in "Three Weeks" as the central figure in this production, with Huntly Gordon in another of his clever portrayals of the middle-aged business man.

Norman Kerry, as the handsome, indolent husband of Miss Pringle, looks and acts in a manner calculated to break the heart of every young woman in the audience.

Louise Fazenda contributes some clever comedy as the stenographer, assisted by Lucien Littlefield. Cleo Madison as the matronly wife, Eleanor Boardman as the modernistic daughter and William H. Crane, William Haines, Raymond Hatton and others, give the principal players excellent support.

HIER, MISS DEVORE IN
"HOLD YOUR BREATH."

"A wonderful comedy cast is the phrase used in the billing of "Hold Your Breath," the feature at the West End theater, and that's exactly what it is. There's a collection of comedians and character players that would make a musical comedy director green with envy.

Dainty little Dorothy Devore has the leading feminine role. She has more pep than almost any other comedienne on the screen. While she has starred in many Christie comedies and played feminine leads in features, this is her first comedy drama.

Walter Hiers of the generous proportions and jovial smile, plays the good natured fiance. Tully Marshall, Jimmie Harrison, Jimmie Adams, Priscilla Bonner and Lincoln Plumer have other important parts. Comedy bits are contributed by Patricia Palmer, Rosa Gore, Jay Belasco, George Pierce, Victor Rodman, Budd Fine, Eddie Baker and Douglas Carter.

Protest Made By Fullerton Realty Firms

FULLERTON, Aug. 29.—Protest against the present city license fees exacted for theaters and realty firms and individual realty men has been made to the city council by the merchants division of the local chamber of commerce. In a letter read at the board meeting the opinion was expressed that the theater tax of $60 a year should be cut to $30, and that the rate for realty firms should be reduced from $25 to $15, and for salesmen from $15 to $10.

A special committee has been appointed by Mayor H. H. Crooke to take up the question. Trustees W. J. Carmichael, Roy R. Davis and W. A. Moore being assigned to the task. They will also consider a suggestion put out by City Attorney F. H. Lyon to make an effort to combine with Anaheim and Orange in the fixing of a uniform schedule to apply to the three towns as regards city license fees.

As a tribute to the enterprise of local women who are promoting the new building project for the Ebell club the council has decided to remit building permit fees on the structure. The trustees have directed that the initial charge of $12.50 be refunded.

ROTARIANS OF ORANGE HEAR DEFENSE TALK CARD PARTY AT LAGUNA BEACH HUGE SUCCESS

ORANGE, Aug. 29.—The observation of national defense day will be a great factor in prevention of a recurrence of the conditions which existed during the World War, when many men were sent to the front without having the least knowledge of warfare, was the statement made by Col. M. B. Wellington, commander of the second battalion, 384th regiment, officers' reserve, to the Orange Rotarians yesterday.

"The price of unpreparedness is blood and money," the reserve officer said, in stressing the point of the value of effective plans of mobilization being developed in advance of a real need of action.

Col. Wellington told the Rotarians that if they could have been with him in France and seen the inexperienced Americans waiting behind the lines in anticipation of the Germans breaking through the front lines that they would have no doubts as to the value of the mobilization plans of the army.

That the real strength of the country in the civilians was a fact brought home to the meeting by the colonel. He stated that the regular army would have no strength from which to build if it was not for the civilian backing, and that the country could not strike an effective blow unless the civilian army was fully trained and equipped. Wellington stated that under the present plans the government would have an effective army in operation within four months.

Ralph Smedley, of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. gave a craft talk to the Rotarians, showing them the beginning of many of the words that are used every day in the modern business. He gave a witty, instructive talk, amusing the men a great deal by showing them the origin of the names of their different businesses.

PROSPERITY OF LAGUNA BEACH IS INDICATED

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 29.—Many things go to prove Laguna Beach is growing. The coming of the sewer to make the town a sanitary and safe place to live in is one of the signs of progress. New business ventures and the prosperity of those already organized is also a sign that Laguna Beach is advancing rapidly. The assurance of the completion of the coast road from Balboa Beach to Serra is another vital factor in the growth of the beautiful city.

The rapid sale of unimproved real estate and the many changes of improved real estate, the building of homes and summer cottages is perhaps the greatest indicator of material growth.

Taking into consideration the visiting public and the number of people who have come to Laguna Beach for a day, a week or a month, a large growth over any previous year is found. The statistics of the Crown Company shows that the traffic to Laguna Beach has increased twenty-five per cent over the increased traffic of any other beach town. This statement was given Mr. Peacock by Crown Stage Traffic Manager P. L. Williams and goes to show that there must be an increased amount of traffic to make this possible.

H. Y. Smith of the Coast Garages states that over $490 in tickets were sold at Laguna Beach in July and that is not counting the return tickets purchased in Santa Ana nor the great number of accommodations issued every month at the Crown Stage office in Santa Ana.

Reservations for over Labor Day have been made weeks in advance at all hotels and rooming houses and a number of rooms available at private residences have been engaged. It is estimated that about twenty-five thousand people are expected to visit Laguna Beach during the coming week-end.

Four Injured In Car Crash Recover Fast

ANAHEIM, Aug. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. H. O. VanDusen, and small daughter, and C. G. Maas, all seriously injured in an auto collision which occurred here yesterday evening, were said to be recovering satisfactorily today.

The cars owned and driven by Van Dusen and Maas, which figured in the accident, were almost demolished when they collided. The accident occurred at the intersection of East and Santa Ana street, and Mrs. VanDusen and her daughter were thrown from their machine by the impact.

Two New Homes For Fullerton

FULLERTON, Aug. 29.—Building permits for two more new local homes have just been issued by Grover L. Walters, city building inspector. Both were for $5000 each. One is to be erected by George E. and Anna Morgan on West Malvern avenue; the other by Jesse E. Ellis on North Drake.

Little Boys of Anaheim Out To See World

ANAHEIM, Aug. 29.—Charles Marine and Wesley Dierberger, both eleven years of age, were out on a trip to see the world today, according to a note left by the lads in the Dierberger postoffice box.

The boys have been missing since Tuesday morning but their absence was not discovered until Tuesday evening. It was not known until Wednesday morning, when a member of the family secured mail from the post office, that the boys had left home. The note was then found, but no clues were given as to the destination of the boys.

Both boys are the same age and about the same height, four feet, seven inches. One wore a white sailor cap and the other a dark cap and dark suit.

Balboa Chamber To Take Up Plans For Improvement

BALBOA, Aug. 29.—Plans for making Balboa one of the most classy as well as attractive pleasure resorts on the Pacific coast will come up for discussion at the next regular meeting of the directors of the Balboa chamber of commerce. September 4, it was announced today by George Neill, secretary of that organization.

With the growing popularity of Balboa as evidenced by an ever growing weekend patronage as well as increase in number of people building summer homes in this place, plans for permanent improvements are beginning to receive serious consideration, according to the chamber official.

Added impetus to the movement is the fact that the management of the Pacific Electric and the executives of the Crown Stage lines have assured the chamber officials that they are willing to co-operate in every way possible in the proposed undertaking.

PROTEST INCREASE OF NEWPORT TAXES

NWPORT BEACH, Aug. 29.—Property owners from all parts of Newport Beach and Balboa attended the meeting held today by the Board of Equalization when protests were heard in connection with a proposed increase of 20 per cent in assessment valuation on all taxable property.

While there seems to be a slight opposition to the proposed increase on the part of a few property owners, the city officials contend that the proposed increase will result in the lowering of the tax rate, and consequently there will be no material increase in the tax to be

BABY CLINIC AT BEACH IS BIG SUCCESS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 29.—The well baby clinic, established some time ago here by Miss Idabel Durgan, county health nurse, has been flourishing during the past several weeks. Various doctors of the city have donated their time and efforts to make the clinic a success.

The clinic is held at the new grammar school building, in the Parent-Teachers association room every Monday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m. Babies up to school age are weighed, measured and examined free of charge. Booklets and diet slips are also available for those who wish them and the county health nurse has agreed to make trips to the various homes to prepare feedings or nursing instructions.

Dr. R. E. Hawes, local physician at the Emergency hospital who has made a special study of children and their diseases, has assisted greatly in the establishment of the clinic here.

"The importance of keeping the baby well cannot be too strongly emphasized. Many of the ills of young babies are due to the feeding problem and are easily preventable," Hawes declared.

The value and object of the well babies clinic are often misunderstood," Hawes said. "They are not charity institutions any more than the bureau of information of the chamber of commerce is a charity institution. Such a clinic is not intended to take the place of the family physician. Many mothers whose babies are under the care of their family physician bring their babies to the clinic regularly to be weighed and measured and later report to their own physician at any failure of the baby to gain or at any loss of weight."

Hawes declared that the loss of weight or failure to gain is often the index of a need of change of feeding and might result in serious conditions later on if not detected quickly. Babies are referred to the family physician when a defect is found by the clinic doctor.

BREAKS BOTTLE AND DESTROYS LIQUID IN IT

ANAHEIM, Aug. 29.—Bootleggers in Anaheim are foiled by officers most every day, but Deb Hunton, a rancher, has demonstrated just how officers may be foiled when they make an arrest for the possession of liquor.

At least Hunton was successful in escaping the usual $200 fine which Judge Kuhel imposed in cases of this kind, and today had paid only $25 for breaking glass on the highway.

Hunton was arrested Tuesday evening, after officers had searched his car, which was parked on the side of the highway and found a bottle of what police say was liquor in the machine. The rest was easy, or so it seemed, and the officer lay in wait for the owner of the car. Hunton made his appearance, removed the bottle from the auto, apparently to take a drink, and then—he was nabbed.

During the next few moments an argument ensued, but Hunton kept the alleged liquor. Then suddenly a crash of breaking glass on the highway, and Hunton told the officer that he had no liquor.

And the officer was forced to admit he was right.

Hunton was arrested, however, on the other charge and escaped with a $25 fine.

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The weekly federal reserve statements indicated a continued ease in the money situation with the ratio of the whole system holding around the 30 per cent of the year at 32.3 per cent. CO-EDS RESENT CRITICISM OF U.C. 'RUSHING'

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Criticism of the "rushing" system used by sororities of the University of California, in the editorial column of the Daily Californian, student publication, has caused a furor on the Berkeley campus.

Sorority members were yesterday "up in arms" over the scathing indictment which termed the practice in vogue as a "despicable situation," the outcome of the "greatest selfishness and egotism."

The women students were incensed when they thought that the attack had been written by a female colleague, but when it developed yesterday that William D. Spencer, editor of the Californian, was the author of the editorial, his office was besieged by irate women students.

Miss Margaret Rowe, president of the Pan-Hellenic, sorority governing body, protests that the stand taken by Spencer is unfair and maintains that the sorority members spare the feelings of the "rushers" as far as possible.

"The system in vogue at the University of California has the approval of the Pan-Hellenic," says Miss Rowe, "and is not materially different from that used by sororities in other colleges throughout the country. Every girl knows she is 'on trial' until she has received an invitation. In rare cases a girl who has been 'rushed' may for some reason be blackballed at the last minute, but to say that the entire system is wrong is grossly unfair."

Miss Gertrude Turner, chairman of the women's student affairs committee, sides with Spencer in his indictment of the "rushing" system which she holds shows an utter lack of consideration on the part of sorority members.

"Many are the heartaches caused by the 'rushing' rules carried out at the University of California," claims Miss Turner. "The situation is an unfortunate one, and I believe something should be done about its reform."

G.O.P. CONVENTION WRITERS TO MARRY

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A romance growing out of the national convention was revealed today when announcement was made of the marriage of Frank W. Getty of the United Press and Maxine Davis, well known Washington newspaper woman and head of the Women's National News bureau.

Miss Davis was a special correspondent for the United News during the convention, while Getty served on the convention staff of the United Press. Miss Davis will continue her newspaper work, making her home in New York.

Round the World

Although the round-the-world airplane flight already has established new flying records, it will not break the existing speed mark for circling the globe. Before the participants were half way on their journey they had taken more than twice as much as time as was required by John Henry Mears of the New York Sun, who, travelling by land and sea, made the trip in 1913 in thirty-five days, twenty-one hours, thirty-five and four-fifths seconds, bettering the performance of the mythical hero of Jules Verne's story by more than four days. He covered an average of 587 miles a day.

Notable among other journeys are those of Capt. W. D. Seymour, who, in 1876, made the trip in 117 days; Nellie Bly's record of seventy-two days, six hours, eleven-minutes and fourteen seconds, in 1889, lowered by about five days by George Francis Train the following year. His mark was bettered by nearly a week in 1901 by Charles Fitzmorris of Chicago. This record was then lowered by Henry Frederick, Col. Burnley Campbell and by Andre Jaeger-Schmidt, a Paris journalist, who held the record until Mears made his notable trip.—From Popular Mechanics.

Pillars of Hercules

While the "Pillars of Hercules" is a term which has been used for time immemorial to describe the two peaks that guard the entrance to the Mediterranean, few people know their proper names and little of their history.

They are commonly known as Gibraltar and Apes' Hill, but the native Arabic names are Djibl Tarik and Djibl Musa, that is, Hill of Tarik and Hill of Musa, or Moses. These names were acquired at the time of a raid into Spain in the year 710 A. D., by some Berbers of Morocco. These were led by two generals, Tarik ibn Zaid en-Nafisi, for whom the Spanish peak was named, and Musa ibn Nosair, whose memorial became Djibl Musa, in Morocco. It was of this expedition, of only one hundred horsemen and one hundred foot, that it has been said, "a simple raid became a conquest," for the Visigoths in Andalus were so weak that riders and subjects fled in panic before the Berbers, leaving Islam to extend its conquest even into France, until checked at Tours by Charles Martel, The Hammer.

Tariffa, the little peninsula situated near Djibl Tarik, and the town by that name, take their title from another Berber of the same period, Tariff, a freedman of Musa ibn Nosair. From it we get our word "tariff," because from Tariffa a "tax" was laid upon all vessels passing through the straits; that is, contributions were levied by force by people who were little more or less than pirates.—George E. Holt in Adventure Magazine.

Milburn was taken into custody on complaint of a young woman who declared that he had followed her home. She reported the matter to the police, and Milburn was immediately arrested.

Hills Bros Coffee grew up with the West

OKLAHOMA was still a territory, the Roosevelt Dam was not even a hazy dream, and Custer's famed Last Charge was but two years old when Hills Bros. Red Can Coffee was born, in 1878. So you see, Hills Bros. and the tradition of the West as the home of wonderful coffee grew up together.

To reassure yourself that this coffee tradition is in safe keeping, break the vacuum seal of a tin of "Red Can." Release that rare aroma! Then brew a cup and lift it to your lips. What flavor! Any wonder Red Can is The Recognized Standard?

With all its high quality, Hills Bros. Coffee is not high-priced. It is economical to buy—and economical to use. Hills Bros., San Francisco.

LAWYERS PLAN NEW FIGHT FOR LEOPOLD-LOEB

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—If Chief Justice John R. Caverly imposes the death sentence on Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold for their murder of Bobby Franks, the defense will start a new fight to save the youths from death, it was revealed today. Preliminary plans are being made now.

The state's attorney's office also is completing plans to ward off the defense in the event of a death sentence.

There are three methods for the defense to stage a fight to snatch the youths from the gallows. Samuel Littleton, for seven years corporation counsel for Chicago and personal counsel for Jacob Franks, father of the little victim, explained to the United Press.

1. The defense can ask for a jury to pass on the sanity of the youths on grounds that they have become insane during or since the trial and sentence.

2. Appeal to the state supreme court to set aside the ruling of the lower court on the grounds of error.

3. Appeal to the governor for commutation of sentence.

State's Attorney Crowe said that if Justice Caverly orders life in jail for the boys, the state could do nothing about it.

ANAHEIM CLUB WOULD REMOVE "KIGY" SIGNS

ANAHEIM, Aug. 29.—Enthusiasm over the defeat of the Ku Klux Klan candidates in the recent primary election, was still apparent here today, and following the organization of the U. S. A. club yesterday, which has for its object the creation of harmony and prosperity in the city, petitions were being circulated to erase the "KIGY" signs off the streets, and put the flagpole back at the intersection of Center and Los Angeles streets, two main thoroughfares.

The petitions will be presented to the city council within a few days, and it is expected that action will be taken to meet the requests. The petition to remove the "KIGY" signs is meeting with a tremendous response, an indicates that most Anaheim people object to the "defacement of the streets" as stated in the request.

A member of the U. S. A. club said there were no officers, no constitution and no dues and no regular place of meeting. Mrs. J. W. Truxav, wife of a local physician, is circulating petitions for the replacement of the flagpole and the erasure of the "KIGY" signs from the streets, the member said.

GAMBLER SHOT IN HOLDUP BY YOUTHS

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 28.—After holding up a gambling joint at Guadalupe, shooting one occupant through the neck and beating another into insensibility, Joe Garcia, 20, Louis Rosales, 28, and the latter's brother, John Rosales, 16, are held in jail awaiting the outcome of the wounding of K. Matsu, wealthy Japanese merchant, who was shot in the neck while he attempted to save a stack of money from one of the tables.

More than 100 men were at the tables, and many more stood watching the play. Matsu had lost steadily at one table until the last game, when he made a clean-up, and $2500 on the table represented his earnings. Suddenly a command, "Hands up," rang through the room and a bandit swept the crowd with two revolvers. Matsu seized his earnings and the next instant the bandit shot, wounding him. Two other bandits raked into a sack the stacks of money on other tables and another man, said to be James Marmon, objected and was beaten.

Jack Larmer, a Santa Margarita cowboy, backing from a rear door opened fire and in the stampede that followed furniture was broken, windows smashed and the three bandits escaped to a waiting car. At Santa Maria they were caught, the officers recovering $600 in money.

3 FOREIGNERS LEFT IN TENNIS TOURNEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Three foreign stars and ten Americans, remain in the running for the American Tennis championship in the international tournament that continues here this afternoon.

Gerald Patterson, captain of the Australian team, Rene Le Coste, the young Frenchman, and Jack Wright, the Canadian, are the only survivors of the fine foreign talent that started in the first round.

The American survivors are William T. Tilden, William M. Johnston, Vincent Richards, George Lott Jr., Johnny Hennessy, Elmer Griffin, Wallace Johnson, Howard Kinsey, Brain Norton and Dean Mather.

As the eliminations continue round by round it begins to seem certain that 1926 will repeat itself and that Tilden and Johnston will meet in the final round.

Practical Notes On

S. S. Lesson

BY CAL OGBURN

Lesson for Aug. 31. John 4:7-14,

24-16, 31-35. JESUS TALKS

WITH A SAMARITAN WOMAN

"There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water." v. 7. The doors of opportunity often swing on unique hinges. A Jew resting at the noon tide hour beside an old well; a woman, according to her daily custom, coming there for a supply of water—and then for both of them a marvelous opportunity. And this, we may think, was a novel experience. In a sense, it was, but it is often in a similar fashion that the great events in our own lives have been introduced. Call nothing small or of little importance. We are performing our routine tasks and duties, when suddenly and unsought something happens that changes the whole trend of life, if not indeed destiny itself. This Samaritan could not have been the same woman in all respects again after her interview with Jesus. A transformation, in thought at least, had taken place that she had never imagined possible only a short time before. She had met the Savior of sinners and talked with him. When any person has had a face to face and heart to heart talk with Jesus, as this woman had, the result—whether permanent or only transient—is more marked than anything else can bring about. Maybe this woman did not reform. There is no direct statement that she did. But she could never after that time sin with the same indifference to the consequences as she had done before. And for that reason there was less pleasure such as it was—in the sinful life she was living. It is just that way in every life, after a private interview with Jesus. There is an added dissatisfaction with what is done that is wrong. Go back over your own life and you will find it so. And yet, from force of habit and really against your better inclination and good judgment, the strange thing about it all is that you may have gone on sinning. In that case seek the presence of Jesus again. To have the consciousness of his nearness is safe.

"Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink." v. 7. How adroitly Jesus introduced the conversation, thus setting an example for us. He must have been a matchless conversationalist. But then what wonderful themes he had at his command—and such knowledge! He met this woman with a simple request that it was not easy for her to deny, especially as the refusal of a drink of water in that arid climate was so generally considered a grave discourtesy. From this point the conversation might have degenerated, as it so often does, or remained on about the same level, and undoubtedly would have done so had it been left to the woman to direct, for conversation never rises higher than its source. And this woman's life was being lived on a low plane. Seemingly at least there was no reason, no inducement or incentive, for Jesus to so much as try to interest this Samaritan woman in anything above that which was common-place. Didn't her unchastity bespeak her a woman also of low intelligence? We frequently hear something like that today. A woman of unchaste life—therefore for many reasons, the least said to her, the better. That probably would have been our attitude. But if Jesus had pursued this course in this instance the world would be the closer by it even to this day, for there is nothing more illuminating and instructive in the entire ministry of Jesus than the record of this incident at Jacob's well. And how strange it all seems, that he should have talked so freely of the great things of God with this "fallen woman" and at the same time withheld the information that he imparted to her from the great men of his own nation, and even from his most intimate disciples. But Jesus regarded neither rank nor distinction. He would break down all barriers of caste, race, sex, color, and special privilege. He would teach the world a great lesson, and he did it by telling it, first of all, to a despised Samaritan woman. His philosophy was—and is—"God is the Father of all men; therefore all men are brothers." This unchaste woman of Sycar was such an outcast to the women of the town where she lived that she had not the moral courage to meet them when they came at the accustomed time, to the well for water. But instead came alone, the long mile and a half, when the sun was at the zenith. The heat of the noon tide was less searching than the withering scorn of her fellow townswomen in the cool of the evening or in the early morning, at which times they came to the well for water. But Jesus talked with her, much like she was a saint! To him she was one of his Father's children. Ah, Jesus, what a long distance there still is between you and the most of your professed followers!

"God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth." v. 24. From the very first, as he directed, the conversation took a high and yet higher trend, till at last he declared this fundamental truth—and not a Pharisee, a Sadducee, or a high priest, but to a woman of Samaria who was living with a man out of wedlock! Tactfully he led her from the simple to the sublime: from the common-place and ordinary to the extraordinary. Maybe, among other reasons, he did it to teach us not to underrate the capacity of our auditor to understand what he should be told about himself and about God. And we must recognize the fact that there is a kind of intuition in all men that only needs to be intelligently guided in order to comprehend their moral duty towards God and themselves. This woman, on taking her departure, knew none the less about wells and waterpots than when she came, and she knew much more about the fundamental truths pertaining to the kingdom of God. Are you careful to tactfully impart to all with whom you engage in conversation some great truth that will set them thinking, and that may revolutionize the whole course of their life?

CONGRATULATIONS ALL 'ROUND

On account of personal friendship and fellow-townsmen relationship, if upon no broader grounds, The Register regrets the defeat of Dr. C. D. Ball for the Assembly nomination; but it has no regret over the nomination of S. C. Hartranft. If Dr. Ball had to be defeated, we are glad that Mr. Hartranft had the honor of winning, for we know of no man in the county whom we would have preferred for that honor.

And it is an honor. Not only to be nominated by the Republicans to represent Orange County in the State Legislature, but to be able to beat Dr. Ball, one of the ablest, most popular and highly respected men in the county.

Certainly we would not subtract one jot or tittle from the glory of Mr. Hartranft's victory, but feel justified in pointing out that there are more votes in the northern part of the county where Mr. Hartranft lives, than in the southern part where Dr. Ball has his home. Also we feel that Mr. Hartranft will join us in congratulating Dr. Ball upon the hearty support and fine endorsement given him by his fellow townsmen and townswomen. In Santa Ana Dr. Ball led Mr. Hartranft by a majority of more than three to one, Ball's vote being 2341 and Hartranft's 722. And no less heartily, we feel sure, will Dr. Ball join us in congratulating Mr. Hartranft upon his like support and endorsement in the northern part of the county.

The county, too, is to be congratulated upon being assured, through Mr. Hartranft's nomination, of continued representation in the State Assembly by a man whose ability and integrity will be second to none in that body—a fit successor to Dr. Ball.

WIDER HIGHWAYS COST MONEY

The expression of the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting last night to the effect that the state highway ought to be paved thirty or forty feet wide is a suggestion for meeting a problem that we all know is growing more serious and trying month by month. Traffic is increasing, and we all feel that something ought to be done about it.

But what? A wider state highway or a parallel highway? And are we willing to foot the bill?

The petition will go to the State Highway Commission asking that the state highway be widened, and the commissioners will answer, "If we had the money we could do a lot of things that we would like to do. Many things that we want to do will have to wait their turn."

When we look ahead for ten years, and know what changes have taken place in traffic in the past ten years, we realize that the State Highway Commission will have its hands full for years to come.

And one of its problems is getting the money.

On the one hand we all join in a fervent petition for reduction of taxes, and on the other hand we earnestly urge that schools be built, that county departments be expanded, that the state keep abreast of the times and that state highways be strengthened and widened.

PHANTASIES OF SPAIN

Spain is having more trouble than ever in Morocco. That province has been in rebellion for several years. Into it Spain has poured a vast amount of blood and money, without benefit. The losses suffered there were one of the main reasons for the revolution headed, a few months ago, by Gen. Primo de Rivera, resulting in his dictatorship. But powerful as Rivera is, he is unable to accomplish his desire of taking the Spanish army out of Morocco. The militarists are still too strong for him.

There is a certain national pride involved. Morocco is the last important province left to imperial Spain, of the vast possessions it held once, in the New World and the Old. Bereft of Morocco, it would have only an occasional island here and there to remind it of its old glory. Yet there is a growing realization among the Spanish people of the hollowness of an imperial policy, especially when a nation lacks the gift for governing other peoples, as Spain does.

That country benefitted more from having the Philippines taken from it by the United States than it had ever benefitted from those islands. It might be prosperous now if the government could devote its efforts to developing Spain itself, along modern lines, instead of trying to hold in subjection an unruly and unconquerable race which once controlled a large part of Spain and will never submit willingly to a Spanish yoke.

Morocco is a striking illustration of the fallacy, still persisting among the powers, that foreign colonies are necessarily profitable. Like Spain, Italy is draining her resources in the same futile effort to govern and exploit people in northern Africa who insist on governing themselves and holding on to their own possessions.

THE GARDEN AND GOLF

John Coolidge, the President's son, spending his vacation at his grandfather's home in Vermont, was invited the other day to go over and play golf with a friend at Woodstock.

"My father has me pulling weeds in the garden," replied John. "I don't play golf, anyway. Come over and help with the weeds!"

Whether the friend came is not revealed, but it was good advice. The President, in ordering his son to pull weeds, is doing what a lot more fathers ought to be doing for their sons. And the son, in acquiescing, is unintentionally setting a fine example.

One of the things needed in this country is more weed-pulling by the boys. It wouldn't hurt their fathers much, either, though it's hard to convince some men nowadays that exercise in the garden is as healthful as exercise on the golf links. The successful business or professional man usually has an idea that no exercise is good for him unless it costs him money.

It'll Be Easier Going Now

Pershing Soon to Retire

Sacramento Bee

On September 13th, General Pershing will be 64 years of age and automatically, under the army law, will go on the retired list. He is now making his last trip of inspection as chief of the general staff.

Although his services will still be at the command of the government in case of need, it is said he plans to spend a part of his new leisure in the preparation of his memoirs.

These will include not only his part in the world war, but his recollections of the Santiago campaign in Cuba, the pacification of the Moros in the Philippines, his observations in the Russo-Japanese war and his pursuit of Francisco Villa in 1916.

General Pershing is the only man to hold the full rank of general since the death of General Phil H. Sheridan on August 5, 1888.

He is the only man who commanded American soldiers in battle in Europe.

He was the chief of a larger force than Grant ever directed. He helped win victories, which were stupendous in themselves and even more stupendous in their effects on world history.

Yet not the least of his many admirable qualities is the modesty with which he has conducted himself both at home and abroad. And he has set an example to be commended in refusing to make of his military fame a stepping stone for his personal political advancement. He will carry into his retirement a reputation unsullied by any blot of egotism or braggadocio.

There is one thing, however, about his retirement that will strike the average citizen as decidedly regrettable.

And that is General Pershing will suffer a cut in pay from $21,500 to $10,125 a year.

They do these things differently abroad. Field Marshal Haig, for his services to the British empire was given an earldom and a grant of 50,000 pounds. General Allenby and other high commanders have also received generous grants from the treasury.

Even Admiral Dewey was given the full pay of an admiral until his death, by act of congress, and when Phil Sheridan was made a full general, the same course was pursued.

Why not with Pershing?

Progressive Conservatism

Stockton Independent

Some papers are objecting to the phrase "Progressive Conservatism," which certain "Coolidge newspapers" are using as a slogan. One declares the phrase a "contradiction in terms." Hardly. "Progressive" carries the implication of advancing, "conservatism" implies saving or preserving. Institutions are often best saved or preserved by a forward adjustment to conditions. "Progressive conservatism" is suggestive of the war phrase, "consolidation of gains" and to progress any other way is liable to cause a sharp retrograde movement.

Conservatism has the same root idea as conservation. To conserve natural resources is progressive and commendable; but to conserve our political institutions and ideals of American life, is quite reactionary and odious. Strange, isn't it?

That Body of Yours

THOUGHTS FROM AN OBSERVING PHYSICIAN

A physician of high standing was asked what the big factors in getting sick people well. "Of course the degree of illness varies with people and likewise their powers of resistance" he said.

"Scarlet fever attacks two children in the same home. One is only slightly ill, has but a faint rash, scarcely any throat trouble. The other is very ill, has a most brilliant rash, and has nose, throat, and perhaps heart complications.

But generally speaking, where I know the family, from the father to the youngest child, I generally know what I'm up against and try to act accordingly.

"The biggest help I have is where the patient has that very valuable asset—common sense.

I don't hesitate to discuss his case frankly with him, because the day of mystery in medicine is past. The physician of today knows vastly more than the physician of yesterday, and so likewise does the average layman. I point out to him what has happened, and the necessity for his co-operation in the treatment.

"The second thing is the grit in people. That desire to get on their feet and about their work again. One who is not satisfied to remain an invalid. I have to be careful with such cases, but it is certainly a help in getting well, to have him show this disposition, this desire to get on his feet again.

"And the third thing I like, and that is of great help, is where the patient not only has common sense, and grit, but where he is willing to follow your advice to the very letter. This may mean a change in his own plans, a check on his desire to sit up too soon, but also some considerable inconvenience to him when he is beginning to get around again.

"You may advise early hours, perhaps cutting down on his smoking, a change in his diet, a daily walk.

All this may be irksome, but your ideal patient will carry it out faithfully."

I just thought I might pass the thoughts of this physician along to you. It might help all of us.

SONNET

Lovers, stir not the bright pool of your love,
Nor throw a stone to watch the ripples play,
Nor cast small twigs afloat, nor from above
Shake down loose leaves to make the surface gay;
Nor let from pique or curiosity
Make acorn boats and send them sailing out,
Boats full of hungry questionings to see
If they will bump each other. Do not shout
To hear if there are echoes; but be still,
And let your pool wait quietly in the sun
Reflecting patient things—the sky, the hill,
And growing trees for your delightful one.
And it will lie as brimming and as deep
As summer oceans, and as kind as sleep.

California's Prosperity

Letter from Former Gov. Pardes

How much is California's prosperity worth to California? Depending, fundamentally and vitally, upon the conservation of the state's waters, which depends upon the protection from fire of the natural cover on our watersheds, ought not that prosperity to be worth all it may cost to protect those watersheds?

Would $150,000 per annum be too much for the state to pay for protecting from fire the 20,000,000 acres of California's watersheds to say nothing of the many million dollars worth of property lying outside the National Forests watersheds, which latter the United States is annually spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to protect for the benefit of the people of California? Would $250,

000 per annum be too much for that purpose? The U. S. Forest

Service has, already this year,

spent the latter sum in fighting fires in the National Forests in this state; and, last year, spent

$128,000—all for the benefit of California.

Governor Richardson, "economizing," thought and said that $22,

180, last and this year, would be amply sufficient for fire-fighting and the state had its worst fire experience. This year, forced to it by an aroused public demand, he added $23,000 to the $22,180,

this admitting that the latter sum was not half enough.

Last year, $10,000,000 worth of

Berkeley was destroyed by a fire that started in another county under state fire jurisdiction, and $2,

000,000 worth of other California

property went up in extraburban fires, as the result of the Governor's first year of "economy."

This year, up to the first of July the second year of the Governor's

"economy" has seen nearly twice
